Tips for parent intervention for unclear speech

- Reinforce child each time he is able to correctly make speech sounds he has difficulty imitating.
- Have child record the words he hears the teacher or other children using which have an identified sound.
- Explain to the child what sound he is making incorrectly, and what he is doing incorrectly when trying to make the sound.
- Model the correct sound for the child.
- Use pictures. (If the child says /sh/ for /ch/, use pictures of similar sounding words such as /ship/ and /chip/. As the adult says the words, the child points to the appropriate picture. The child then takes a turn saying the words as the adult points.
- Use a tape recorder for the child to listen to speech sounds and evaluate his own speech. Can he hear the error?
- Have child identify who he thinks is a good speaker and why. (other children, adults, celebrities) Do they speak clearly, use good eye contact, appropriate volume, etc.)
- Make a list of what attributes are likely to help a person become a good speaker.
- Play a game in which the child tries to imitate the sounds made by the adult or other children (Simon Says).
- Have child keep a notebook of difficult words he finds each day. The child can then practice saying the words.
- Have child keep a list of all the words he can think of which begin with sounds he experiences difficulty making. (or use a spelling list)
- Have child cut out pictures of items containing the sounds he has difficulty making and display them where he can practice the word each day.
- Have child make up sentences, using speech sounds he has difficulty imitating.

- During oral reading, underline difficult words and reinforce the child's attempt at saying them correctly.
- TRY TO KEEP IT POSITIVE!!!! REINFORCE WHEN POSSIBLE! but POSITIVE POSITIVE POSITIVE!!!!

Phoneme Therapy Cards

The phoneme (sound) cards listed below in PDF form are proposed to be used for practice in conjunction in a playful manner, i.e., during your child's favorite game (chutes and ladders, candy land, etc.) The sounds are meant to be practiced, not drilled, while modeled by a clear speaking partner.
